Twenty-six more Georgia counties, including Fulton, DeKalb, and Rockdale, were added yesterday to the Department of Agriculture's drouth committee's list of agency drouth counties, where relief for distressed farmers is granted immediately.

At the same time a two-day conference was started in Atlanta to draw up plans of procedure in drouth-stricken rural family of the state.

While all this relief was being planned, clouds gathered over Atlanta shortly after 1:30 p. m., when an unobstructed sun had shot the sun at the downtown weather station to the 97-degree mark.
Temperatures began to fall as the sun was obscured and about 4 p. m.
showers drove still lower the temperatures that had fallen to 87 degrees. While .05 of an inch of rain was reported officially, the thermometer recorded 78 degrees.

Bolt Wrecks Barn.
Lightning bolt crashed out of the hanging clouds shortly after 4
p. m., wrecked a telephone line in front of the home of C. H.
Hamer at 1510 Stewart avenue,
and a two-story barn in the rear of the Hamer residence.
The barn was wrecked and the top was burned off. The Decker family and neighbors, partially stunned by the terrific crash, pulled aside members of the demolished structure and rescued six demised, all of whom were taken to the hospital.

Bloch, of Macon; Mr. Hardy, Mayor Key and Secretary Robert. Part of the money came from the Nomination and part from Roosevelt's Georgia entrance fee funds which contributors refused to have returned to them after the fee was cancelled when Roosevelt alone announced for the Georgia primary. CITY OFFICIALS PLAN SERIES OF MEETINGS

Safety, Tax, Ordinance, Zoning and Police Groups Assemble Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be a red letter day at the city hall and in local political circles. Councilman John A. White and Robert P. McLarty, of the safety commission, have called a public hearing beginning at 2 o'clock on a series of proposals to reduce traffic hazards. The tax committee meets at 2 o'clock and several important matters face that body. Beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Councilman J. Allen Couch, chairman, and other members of the ordinance committee will hold a public hearing on a proposal to curb radical activities in Atlanta. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a meeting of the zoning subcommittee of the city planning commission, of which Walter S. McNeal Jr., is chairman. At that time several petitions of importance will be studied, and application for operation of a number of automobile wrecking and junk yard establishments will be considered.

Members of the public safety committee will meet at 8 o'clock at night at the police station. Chief among the measures to be considered by the safety commission, will be one requiring registration of all automobiles and their drivers at the police station as a move to furnish enforcement officers with greater facility in identifying machines. White asserted that 90 per cent of the 100,000 cars operated in the Atlanta area are driven by law-abiding and safe drivers, but that all should be registered to give police a better check-up on machines.

Among other safety measures will be a White proposal to establish the position of safety director and creation of a special court to try traffic law offenders.

There also will be requests that the Georgia legislature enact a uniform state drivers' license law, establish a state patrol, and a request that the motor division of the state revenue commission designate certain blocks of tags for this area in order that local cars will be easily identified. Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic department, and four traffic officers will ask the police committee for permission to ask the traffic officers' training school July 20-31 at the University of Alabama, at the safety committee meeting.

JOHN W. BALL JR. SEEKS ALDERMANIC ELECTION

Announces Candidacy From New Fourth Ward; Named Two Years Ago.

John W. Ball Jr., member of the aldermanic board as a representative from the present tenth ward for the past two years, yesterday announced his candidacy for alderman from the newly created fourth ward, composed of the present seventh and tenth wards. His candidacy is subject to the September 2 municipal primary.

Ball was elected alderman for a four-year term about two years ago, but the reduction in the number of city wards and the consequent slash in the membership of council, necessitates another race this year.

He is serving on the public safety committee, the board of firemasters and the prison, street and sewer committees.

He issued the following statement regarding his candidacy:

"I am announcing my candidacy for alderman from the new fourth ward because I feel that with two years' service already rendered, I have gained valuable experience that will be helpful to me in giving good service to the taxpayers in the future. I will have served only two years of a four-year term, for which I was elected two years ago.

"I have tried during the time I have been a member of the general council to render honest and faithful service. I have met issues squarely as they have come up. I have tried to be conservative, yet progressive, and have always been on the side of good, clean government and an economic administration, yet without stint to the men and women who actually do the work for the city. If elected I shall continue that policy.

"If elected I shall not forget that the people of Atlanta are entitled to proper protection from law breakers, and that this protection should be first in the minds and conduct of our police department; that the people are entitled to good schools, proper sanitation, good streets, and all things that go to make a happy, contented people. On this statement, and on my record, I ask the votes of the people of this city for alderman from the new fourth ward, giving me an opportunity to really serve them for the four years for which I was elected two years ago."

2 SENTENCED IN SLAYING.

KINGSTON, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—A jury convicted Miss Edith Nancy, a Rockwood nurse, and Floyd Dougherty, a taxicab operator, today of involuntary manslaughter in the trap-gun slaying of Charles Clark, 16, a year ago, and fixed sentences of 11 months and 29 days in the county workhouse.

'Flying' Officer Nails Siren-Using Bootlegger

Flying tackle tactics were used by Archie R. Curtis, DeKalb county officer and former Clemson football star, to "nail" a fleeing bootlegger late Sunday night in a chase with Officer C. M. Cloud. The two officers became suspicious of an automobile on North Decatur road and Emory road and gave chase as the car sped away. A giant siren on the liquor car opened up traffic but the suspect was halted on Briarcliff road near North Decatur road. The alleged bootlegger jumped from his car and fled on foot, but Curtis soon made a "shoelace" tackle and captured the man, listed by police as James Douglas, of a Ponce de Leon avenue address. Officers reported 189 pints of liquor were found in the car. Douglas was later released under $200 bond.

The flying tackle capture was preceded an hour before by another chase which netted another car, a suspect and 41 pints of liquor. Becoming suspicious of a car parked at DeKalb avenue and Clifton road, the officers had to make another chase when the car sped away. They arrested the driver, listed as Allen Banks, of a Ponce de Leon avenue address, when they found 41 pints of liquor in the car, they reported.

Commercial failures, as recorded by the mercantile agency, dropped to 140 for the week compared with 193 in the comparable period last year, a decline of 27.5 per cent, and 201 in the 1934 week. The 1935 figure embraced a full six-day week.

For the year failures numbered 5,560 against 6,527 in the comparable period last year, a drop of 14.8 per cent, and 6,774 in the 1934 period.

SOCIAL SECURITY LAW SOUGHT FOR GEORGIA

Meeting Launching State Drive To Force Vote, Will Be Held Tomorrow.

The opening note of a state-wide campaign to enact enabling laws for social security will be sounded in Fulton county tomorrow night by Walter C. Carraway, chairman of the social security committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, at a meeting at the Labor Temple.

Carraway said a speaker's bureau will be formed here and that extensive plans to force inclusion of a referendum on the social security enabling laws on the September election ballots have already been made.

Hitting at Governor Talmadge, who vetoed the constitutional amendment containing the enabling legislation, by criticizing "the lack of co-operation from those in authority," leaders of the move to put Georgia in position to share in the federal social security act provisions have effected a state-wide organization under the direction of William L. Grayson, of Savannah.

Voters of the state will be asked to signify their desire for the enabling laws and thus, when sufficient interest is shown, county ordinaries will order the question submitted to the people on the general election ballots this fall, Carraway said. Under ordinary procedure the matter could not be brought up in the legislature for two years, but in this manner can be considered at the next session, he asserted.

Carraway, who is also chairman of a similar committee for the Fraternal Order of Eagles, has been closely identified with the social security movement since 1921.

Should Georgia pass laws enabling it to share under the federal social security act, old age pensions, care for the blind and infirm will be provided and the state will benefit doubly because money spent by it will be matched equally by the federal government.

Carraway's address will be delivered before the Upholsterers, Carpet and Linoleum Workers Union at 8 o'clock.

MUNICIPAL HEADS MEET TOMORROW

Georgia Leaders Will Discuss 15-Mill Limitation at Convention Here.

Study of the proposed 15-mill tax limitation and other matters affecting Georgia municipalities will be considered at the annual convention of the Georgia Municipal Association tomorrow at the Ansley hotel.

The annual banquet will be held tomorrow night and sessions of the gathering will continue through Saturday.

Mayor James D. Ashley, of Valdosta, is president of the association, and Mayor Zack Arnold, of Fort Gaines, is executive secretary. Among the major matters for discussion are the proposed 15-mill tax limitation amendment, the abuse of veterans' disability licenses, uniform traffic laws for Georgia cities, adoption of means to handle local isolation through other mediums to the state legislature," Mayor Ashley said yesterday.

"We also will study a number of proposed methods of obtaining additional revenue for the city governments of the state.

"Our organization in the past has devoted itself to a program of education along these lines and feel that the results of our discussions held in various sections of the state have been very beneficial."

ASPIRANTS FOR SENATE TAKE POLITICAL STAGE

Russell To Make Address at Columbus Today; Talmadge Speaks Tomorrow.

With Georgia's four gubernatorial candidates showing much activity during the week, the race for the United States senate will share the spotlight when Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. will deliver a speech this morning at Columbus and his opponent, Governor Talmadge, will make the second speech of his campaign tomorrow at Cartersville.

Senator Russell's talk will be non-political, his headquarters in the Hancock hotel announced here yesterday.

The Governor announced during the day that his platform would be open to other candidates for office tomorrow. Charles D. Redwine, Fayetteville banker and president of the state senate, who is the Talmadge candidate for governor, also will address the meeting. The Talmadge speech, beginning at 12 o'clock Atlanta time, (11 o'clock Cartersville time), will be broadcast over station WSB.

Rivers Meeting. Meanwhile plans were perfected for the meeting at the meeting at the hotel tonight of Fulton county friends and supporters of Speaker E. Rivers who will gather to form the Fulton County Rivers-for-Governor Club.

Walter C. Hendrix, former chairman of the Fulton county commission, will preside over the Rivers meeting, which will begin at 8 o'clock. Speaker Rivers made the second speech of his campaign yesterday at Hamilton and last night made the first of a series of radio broadcasts. He plans to spend Monday night throughout the campaign.

Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, candidate of the Welter convention, met into north Georgia yesterday to get the voters. He plans to spend a week in the seventh congressional district, climaxing his drive with a speech Saturday at Cartersville.

Meanwhile W. W. Larson, of Dubuque, continued his active drive for the governorship, launching a series of lectures in northwest Georgia. In his campaign speech at Hamilton, Speaker Rivers pledged full cooperation with the recovery program President Roosevelt and praised the executive for launching the Rural Resettlement project in Harris county.

BARRETT DEFENDS TALKS. Talmadge attitude. ATLANTA, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—William K. Barrett, Richmond county representative, today was a defender of Governor Talmadge against the school books during the last legislative session.

Barrett addressed a letter to the editor of a newspaper as a direct answer to Wilmer D. Lanier, another Richmond legislator, who had been quoted as saying "Talmadge told him the privacy of his office" he was used to free school books.

After we had successfully pushed him through the house and sent Barrett wrote the paper, "I went to the Governor's office and asked him to sign the bill. He told me he was in favor of free school books. He said that he had promised Georgia out of debt and that he was going to keep that promise, and to indulge in whatever luxuries we could afford."

OTHERFORD BACKED BY 'WITNESSES' HERE Support in his quarrel with the archbishop of the Philadelphia diocese was wired to Judge J. Rutherford, of Brooklyn, N. Y., leader in the Jehovah Witnesses movement, by delegates to a mass meeting of the southern division of Jehovah's Witnesses, which was held 1459 Peachtree street, N. E., Friday night.

Following a series of radio lectures delivered by Judge Rutherford, the religion management, it was stated, received a letter from the Rev. James J. Burke, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, of the Blessed Sacrament, vigorously protesting the lectures. The letter, which is said to have had the approval of Archbishop Dougherty, of Philadelphia, diocese, charged Judge Rutherford attacks the Catholic church, misrepresents her teachings and foments hatred and bigotry.

YOUTH TRIES SUICIDE AFTER GANG SENTENCE Despondent over a three-month prison sentence, 18-year-old Louis Hatcher of Sumter, S. C., yesterday attempted to commit suicide by hanging himself in the courthouse detention room.

Hatcher was found guilty by Judge Arthur Z. Rosser, who presided in criminal court for Judge Jesse M. Wood, of malicious mischief in connection with his attempt to burglarize North Avenue Presbyterian church early. After sentence was passed, youth was taken to the detention room to await transfer to the tower. He tried his belt around his neck and a hamster of a stairway and attempted to strangle himself, guards intervened. Shouting by other prisoners in room called the attention of deputy sheriffs, who took charge of Hatcher.

The youth told Judge Rosser he became stranded in Atlanta while hitchhiking from Florida to South Carolina.

FEDERAL CREDIT URGED ON STATE LOAN FIRMS

Building and Loan Conclave at Rome Hears LaRoque, of FHLB.

ROME, Ga., July 13.—(P)—O. K. LaRoque, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, urged today that the outstanding advances of the institution be increased fivefold to meet building needs.

"It is estimated that during the next ten years there is needed at least 100,000 one-family homes per year within our district," LaRoque said in an address before the Georgia Building and Loan League.

"Your associations are in a position to finance these homes, through local share investments together with your unused credit in the Winston-Salem bank."

"At the present time our members are using approximately 20 per cent of lines of credit established and available. Outstanding advances of our bank should be more than $40,000,000 at this time instead of the $9,000,000 actually outstanding."

The Winston-Salem bank serves the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia and the District of Columbia.

LaRoque and three other nationally known men in home financing were escorted here for the opening of the league's eleventh annual convention by a delegation from Atlanta. Others in the group were Morton Bodfish, president of the national league; Horace Russell, general counsel for the bank at Washington, D. C.; and Justice Langille, president of the southeastern group conference.

Speaking of results sought to be accomplished by building and loan associations, LaRoque said an effort is being made "to improve the moral and financial conditions of our communities through the promotion of thrift as a means to home ownership, thus making possible the advancement of all our citizens in the knowledge that what is good for the community is good for the individuals making up the community."

Investing members, he said, are "not so much interested in the amount of return on investment as the certainty of the return of the investment."

Reviewing the work of the Winston-Salem bank LaRoque said:

"Since beginning operations in October, 1932, your bank in Winston-Salem has disbursed 1,898 advances to members in this district."

"Among the 12 banks of the (national) system, we stand second in number of advances made and fourth in gross amount loaned."

"Of the total amount advanced up to June 30, $24,151,152, we have received repayments amounting to $15,324,043, leaving a net amount outstanding of $8,826,209, the peak of our outstanding net loans since organization."

TAX CHANGE IS URGED TO SPUR EDUCATION

Sanford Tells Conference School Equality Is Un-American.

ATHENS, Ga., July 13.—(P)—Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University of System of Georgia, told state educators tonight "it is unfair and un-American to deny children of one community the opportunities granted to those of another."

He addressed the opening session of the annual university-state education department conference.

Solution of Georgia's school problem, the chancellor said, is entirely dependent on a new tax act that collects on ability to pay rather than possession of property.

"It is necessary to transfer the support of education from local communities to the entire state. Collect the money where the wealth is and spend it where the children are."

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, speaking to the educators and laymen, urged aid for the "educationally underprivileged."

Mrs. Charles D. Center, of College Park, president of the state Congress of Parents and Teachers, disclosed plans of her organization for adequate facilities in the schools.

She said the state education board recently "made" some new history in Georgia in that it set in motion the program to give free books to each child in the first six grades.

Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia, presided at tonight's session. The conference continues through Wednesday morning.

ONE DEAD, FOUR HURT AS CAR, TRUCKS CRASH

Passenger Car Crushed Between Other Vehicles on Highway Near Villa Rica.

Their car crushed between two trucks on the highway near Villa Rica late Sunday night, four Atlanta were injured, two seriously, and William Wright, 45, of Carrollton, driver of one of the trucks, was killed.

Claude Smith, of 701 Carroll street, and Miss Eva Herron, of 155 Savannah street, were admitted to Grady hospital after being brought to Atlanta following the crash.

Smith suffered a fractured skull and Miss Herron sustained fractures of the jaw and right arm.

Other occupants of the passenger car, Miss Eugene Wilson, of 185 Shinerhart street, and Elin Underwood, of 663 Whiteford avenue, were given emergency treatment at the hospital for minor injuries.

Wright and several of the injured victims were placed in a light van by passing motorists and brought to Atlanta. Wright was dead on arrival here.

According to witnesses of the crash, the passenger car attempted to pass a large truck and met the light truck driven by Wright. The automobile was wedged between the two trucks, the car and the lighter truck being demolished.

Wright's body was pulled from the wreckage by passing motorists as the demolished automobile burst into flames, setting fire to his truck. The victim was badly mangled. W. A. Erickland, of Carrollton, an occupant of the truck, was not seriously hurt.

GLACIER PRIEST SAVED BY FEMALE 'MUSHER'

Girl Finds Hubbard and Companion Wrecked in Ice Rapids.

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 13.—(P)—The chance arrival of a motorboat sailing party, led by Mary Joyce, Alaska's attractive "lady musher," saved Father Bernard Hubbard and his companion who were wrecked in ice rapids of the Tazewell river.

The explorer disclosed today that Miss Joyce, who drove a dog team 100 miles last winter to a Fairbanks ice carnival, and her party had found their boat down stream to view the rapids.

"She was horrified, she told me, to see a man on a rock and a wrecked boat in the raging waters," Father Hubbard said. "She ran to the shore and found George Gatty, member of our expedition."

"He jumped in and pulled it down. I leaped into it as it swirled and we soon were safe below the rapids."

Father Hubbard, describing the wrecking of the boat from which Ken Chisholm, former Santa Clara football player, had leaped "by a miracle" onto a rock, said it was the first serious mishap in his 10 years of Alaskan exploration. He gave praise to Chisholm.

Father Hubbard's specially built light-weight steel boat and much valuable equipment were lost in the accident, which occurred last week. He feared a new one shipped but planned to return to the scene with a newly built wooden riverboat he might have.

Need for public health officers in Georgia's 150 counties was emphasized yesterday by Dr. Charles W. Roberts, Atlanta physician, in a lecture on "Doctors and Hospitals in the State of Georgia," before the Atlanta Club weekly luncheon-meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Roberts estimated 2,317 lives had been saved during the last 10 years in the state's 150 counties if medical officers had been maintained by the counties. He based this estimate on the records of 35 counties which do maintain public health officers.

Dealing directly with the Atlanta medical question, Dr. Roberts said: "There are about 2,000 physicians in Georgia, and some 2,000 hospital beds, total investment of $6,500,000. Cost of operations of the hospitals amounts to about $2,000,000 and cost of medical service to patients, from two to three million dollars."

He estimated that, as a business, medicine totaled a $10,000,000 turnover yearly. Replacement value of the state's 700 hospitals would be $7,000,000 by Dr. Roberts, who estimated the cost for a physician's education to run to about $10,000.

PHYSICIAN NAMED IN DIVORCE ACTION

Dr. B. F. Williams, indicted in Fake Claim Case, Accused of Cruelty.

Alleging her husband and his son frequently cursed and abused her, Mrs. Gray Gray, wife of Dr. B. F. Williams, Atlanta physician, who last week was indicted in connection with the fake damage claim racket, was named in a warrant charging wife beating and was arrested for drunk and disorderly conduct.

The wife, stating that she and Dr. Williams were married February 22, 1934, and separated July 10, 1936, asserted her husband beat and abused her constantly. She set forth the doctor earned from $5,000 to $10,000 yearly and petitioned the court for permanent alimony. She also asked that her maiden name be restored, and that Dr. Williams be restrained from molesting her as set for July 18 before Judge E. E. Pomeroy.

Deputy sheriffs at Fulton tower said Tuesday night that Dr. Williams had not made the $10,000 bond set in connection with his indictment, nor the $5,000 bond under which he was bound from municipal court to criminal court on the wife-beating charge.

S. FARM TAX BILL LOWEST IN 16 YEARS

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(P)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today the nation's 1935 farm estate tax bill was $365,000,000, smallest in 16 years.

Dr. Eric Englund, assistant chief of the bureau, said the downward trend representing an adjustment to the levels of farm income, had been general throughout the nation.

Old Greek Coin, From Tut's Tomb, Is Proud Possession of Atlantan Piece Believed To Date From Alexander's Invasion of Egypt.

Memories of ancient Greek glory and of the grandeur that once was Egypt's roll across the centuries for J. S. Burton when he displays an ancient Greek coin alleged to have been excavated from the tomb of King Tutankhamen.

Burton, of 140 Belmont avenue, S. W., is an equipment installer for Western Union's Atlanta office. He said he purchased the coin from a resident of Elizabethtown, Ky., about two months ago. The man he bought it from told him the first possessor of the coin had gotten it from his father, a member of the party which excavated the tomb of King Tutankhamen, popularly known as "King Tut."

"According to the man's story," Burton said, "the member of the excavation party secreted the coin in his shoe in order to get it out of the tomb unobserved."

Chronological Doubt. Question was raised as to how a coin, evidently of Greek make, and of Alexander's period, could have gotten into Tutankhamen's tomb. Burton explained that the Egyptian king was buried 1350 B. C., approximately 1,000 years before Alexander conquered the then known world. Following his conquest of Persia in 331 B. C., Burton said, Alexander the Great invaded Egypt and probably, as one great conqueror to another, paid a visit to the great Egyptian monarch's grave.

The tomb of Tutankhamen, who was the son of King Akhenaten and Queen Nefertiti, is located south of Luxor, part of Ancient Thebes. It was discovered by the Englishman, Howard Carter in 1922.

The coin, edges worn away by the rush of passing centuries, is about the size of an American quarter and has the shape of a button from a military jacket. If real and not counterfeit, Burton said the coin would be invaluable. Few such coins circulate outside of museums or the collections of wealthy coin collectors.

Description of Coin. Engraved on the upper surface of the coin is a head, presumably of Alexander the Great. For on the reverse side is printed a name, which Burton had translated, meaning "Alexander." On the same side with the name is engraved the picture of another monarch. His right hand is outstretched and perched upon the wrist is a raven or pigeon. According to ancient mythology, birds were symbols of wisdom.

A long pole, or spear, which ancient mythology declares to be symbols of sovereignty, is clutched in the king's left hand.

Burton, who has no bad luck since the coin came into his possession, says he does not believe in superstition. When King Tut's tomb was excavated, markings over the door laid a curse upon the one who disturbed the king's royal bones. From that time, since then, the world has heard stories of how men in the excavation party have died, naturally and unnaturally.

Superstitious Teller. Burton said, however, that others take the story of the curse seriously. He said he once showed the coin to a bank teller. Casually he mentioned it was from King Tut's tomb.

"The teller dropped it as if it had suddenly grown hot," Burton said, with a grin.

Another time he showed it to a man on a train. The fellow, Burton said, wanted to look at it until he mentioned from where the coin was alleged to have come.

"He was coming to look at it while it rested in my hand," Burton ended.

CHINA'S NATIONALISTS IGNORE WAR DEMANDS

Kwangtung Commander Is Discharged; Southern Leaders Condemned.

NANKING, China, July 13.—(P)—China's powerful Kuomintang rebuked the restless southwest today.

The central committee of the nationalist party ignored southern demands for war against Japan.

It abolished its southwest executive committee, discharged General Chan Chai-Fong, the Kwangtung commander, and condemned southern leaders for trying to establish independent politico-economic units.

Then it established a national defense council which will include leaders of all sections and heard an eloquent appeal for political and military unity of all Chinese factions from the Nanking dictator, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

(Dispatches from Peiping said Japan secured a new hold on North China Monday with the appointment of Wang-Keh-Min as chairman of the Hupeh-Chahar economic commission.)

The dispatches quoted vernacular newspapers as saying the inner Mongolian Prince Teh Wang was making extensive recruitments for a new national army.

MAIL ASSOCIATION LEADERS TO MEET

Executive Committee, Representing Five States, To Convene Here July 20 and 21.

A two-day session of the executive committee of the Fourth Division Railway Mail Association, to be held July 20 and 21 at the Ansley hotel, will bring to Atlanta some of the outstanding officials of the railway mail service.

The executive committee is made up of the presidents of the local branches in Atlanta, Macon, Jacksonville, Birmingham, Nashville, Chattanooga, Charleston and Bristol, Tenn. These will represent 1,400 railway mail clerks in five southern states. Accompanying these officials to the Atlanta meeting will be their wives and a number of other visitors.

S. S. Griffin, president of the Atlanta local, with Thomas McDaniel, chairman of the committee on arrangements and entertainment, aided by a group of ladies, including Mrs. E. D. Adams, Mrs. E. B. Townsend and Mrs. E. H. Adams, have planned a day's outing for the visitors.

This will take place at Moxley park, beginning at 11 a. m. At 1 o'clock a barbecue will be served, at 2:30 there will be a softball game and, from 3:30 to 4:30, music and dancing is programmed.

Meeting with the executive committee on July 20 will be National President J. F. Bennett, of Washington, D. C., and Vice President G. M. Harvey, of St. Paul, Minn. Other prominent officials in the mail service who will be in the city are P. J. Schmitt, of Washington, former national president of the association and now assistant to the vice president of the Southern railway; F. C. Naylor, of Chattanooga, assistant mail traffic manager of the Southern railway; and George I. Kimble, of Norfolk, mail and express manager of the Seaboard Air Line railway.

Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Congressman Robert Ramspeck and prominent government officials have been invited.

GUM-DIPPED TIRES

— SAYS Ab Jenkins WORLD-FAMOUS DRIVER

THERE is a reason why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the Masterpiece of Tire Construction—hold more records for safety, speed, mileage and endurance, than all other makes of tires combined. They are the only tires built with a Gum-Dipped cord body.

Ab Jenkins subjected Firestone Tires to the most severe test ever known on the Bonneville salt flats, the world's fastest speedway. He established 77 world's records on Firestone Tires, driving up to 153 miles per hour without tire trouble of any kind. He has also driven more than a million miles on Firestone Tires—in practically every state in the Union, on all kinds of roads, in all kinds of weather—all without tire trouble and without accident.

Only Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires could stand such a gruelling grind. Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process that prevents internal friction and heat, is the secret of the extra strength and reserve safety built into Firestone Tires.

You, of course, will never drive your car at 153 miles per hour on the highway, but at today's higher speeds you do need tires that will give you greatest blowout protection, that will stop your car up to 25% quicker, and that will give you 50% longer non-skid mileage. Take no chances! It costs so little to protect lives worth so much. Equip your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the safest tires that money can buy!

TOWNSEND LEADERS
SEEK CHARTER CHANGEParty's Leaders Launch Determined Drive for Pension Amendment.CLEVELAND, July 13.—(UP)— Leaders of the Townsend movement opening Wednesday—started a drive tonight to write their old-age pension scheme into the organic law of America through a constitutional amendment.Their strategy calls for a bold bid to seize control of the next congress by supporting candidates of any political faith so long as they will pledge themselves to vote for a bill that would pay $200 a month to the aged. There is determined opposition among some senators to the plan, but the Townsendites are confident that they can overcome it, including the one headed by Representative William Emcke, of North Dakota.Lemke To Speak.
Nevertheless, Lemke—the despised man who believes inflation will be the ultimate salvation of the farmers—telegraphed today that he would appear Sunday to address the 15,000 persons expected to attend the convention. As the presidential candidate of the national union party, he is expected to make his bid at that time for the votes of the 4,000,000 followers of Dr. Francis E. Townsend.
His telegram indicated he was ready to write the Townsend plan into his platform.

Lemke may be willing to accept the Townsend plan, but there was doubt whether the Townsends were ready to accept him.Frank Arbuckle, of Los Angeles, member of the Townsend board of directors and permanent chairman of the last convention, said the organization was pursuing the same methods it has always used. By that he meant the Townsends were cutting across and through party lines, seeking candidates who would support their pension plan and not caring whether the candidate was labeled republican, democratic or national union.Coughlin Aloo.

Arbuckle said the resolutions committee would make a recommendation for a constitutional amendment to the convention.Informed persons believed there is little chance of a coalition being cement here. Father Charles E.
Coughlin will not attend the Townsend convention, but will hold one of his own here in the middle of August.
The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, heir to the remnants of Huey P. Long's "Share-Our-Wealth" Clubs is on the program for a speech Wednesday, but there was considerable doubt as to whether he speaks for a tightly-knit organization and whether he can deliver a sizeable amount of votes.WHOLE CREW RESCUED whole crew was rescued from the Peruvian naval motorship Maronon tonight when it was lost off the coast 180 miles south of Callao, a dispatch from there said. The ship was engaged in revising and feeding lighthouses along the coast between Punta Azua and Cerro Quemado just off sectors also. General Motors Corporation announced that managers in its 65 plants had been authorized to confer with employees to ascertain their wishes with regard to stopping work until the heat wave ends."Hot spots" of more than 100-degree temperatures were less numerous around noon today than for the past several days, but they were widely scattered. Chicago's gift from Lake Michigan, a cooling breeze, held the mercury around 85. New York enjoyed the temperate 70's but expected warmer weather again Tuesday.Mark of 112 Set.

Out on the western prairies of Canada a new high mark of 112 was recorded at Emerson, Man. Dominion deaths mounted also.The rains brought only a temporary break in the high temperatures of Canada's western wheat area. This was also the case south of the border, to the eastern limit of the cool front's advance. However, the showers which reached a score of states over the week-end were heartily welcomed, gave new leases on life to pasturers and revived hopes for some latematuring crops.The corn situation in the great producing states of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Nebraska, however, remained highly critical. The next few days were expected to decide whether the crop would live up somewhere close to expectations or go the way of other grains.Domestic prices for cereals were steady today in the Chicago pits and other domestic markets. Quotations closed about even with Saturday's finish. Trading was quieter after the day's wild outburst of selling, occasioned by the forecasts of approaching moisture which failed to materialize.Cool Weather Coming.
The weathermen were not wholly pessimistic, however. The Chicago bureau said another cooling mass was approaching from the Pacific northwest and neighboring Canada, and that it might provide the necessary "push" to dissipate the heat as far east as Illinois, possibly as early as Wednesday.While the sun seared on, relief measures were progressing also. In Colorado Springs, Col., Secretary
Wallace, of the Agriculture Department, gave a late report to the nation on the western situation in a national broadcast address.In Washington, Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell conferred with drought relief representatives from six affected central and western states. An additional allocation of $3,000,000 for direct subsistence grants to farmers was announced.
In North Dakota, nearly a score of damns part of an extensive water conservation program designed to eventually prevent repetition of this year's disaster—were under construction.
The muster of cropless farmers working on income producing projects increased to 5,000.Livestock Movement.
The rains on the western ranges effectively quenched the drought in sections of Wyoming and Montana, and ended the menace of serious forest fires near Gillette, Wyo. Authorities agreed that the showers and cooler weather would halt the abnormally large shipments of livestock from the area.Rain fell in northern Minnesota during the afternoon, but the forestry fire situation continued potentially dangerous there. State Conservation Commissioner E. V. Willard warned.
He said the menace was the most serious the state had ever known be-

ALLOTTED IN DROUGHTWASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—
An additional $3,000,000 for direct subsistence grants to drought-stricken farmers of the midwest was allotted today by the Resettlement Administration.A subsistence fund of $393,000 was set aside for the drought areas last week. Officials estimated the additional $3,000,000 would be sufficient to continue grants ranging from $15 to $20 a month per family for two months.Joseph L. Dailey and W. W. Alexander, assistants to Tugwell, who have just returned from a tour of the drought area, estimated $30,000, 000 would be needed for a cattle feeding program until next season. They said if rains come approximately $15-20,000,000 would be needed to finance cattle feeding through loans to farmers. They said the administration has asked Roosevelt for an immediate allocation of $2,000,000 to move cattle to grazing areas and to provide feed loans.E. D. RIVERS PRAISES either Judge Larsen or Judge Fortson.

I esteem them both very highly.
They are good Georgians and good democrats.""Judge Larsen did well as a federal judge administrator. I regret that he voluntarily resigned this position to enter the race for governor.
"Judge Fortson is a fine type of gentleman. He is making a good record as judge of the superior court."Regrets Division.
"It is interesting to me that we three, all taking identical positions on the present state administration, espoused by the other competitor for the governorship, who has been announced by the Governor, should be divided among ourselves while the opposition centers on one man.""For years I have been an outstanding supporter of President Roosevelt.
I know what he has done for Georgia. I know that the people of this state are overwhelmingly for him, and from the day of his inauguration three years ago I have on every occasion urged our people to stand by him and his administration. I recognize the fact that this is the dominant issue of this campaign. I welcome the support of both Judge Larsen and Judge Fortson in a sincere effort to redeem the state. It is commended that I am far in the lead of all candidates and the other two candidates can have no other effect than to contribute to the cause of the opposition, which, if confronted by a united phalanx of the supporters of President Roosevelt and his administration, will be sent on a march from the slaughterhouse to an open grave."Refuses Criticism.
"His only hope is in this division and so far as I am concerned I want it understood now in the beginning of the campaign that I am not offering a word of criticism or condemnation against these two distinguished opponents.""I expect to be nominated on the first ballot but if, perchance, anything should happen to force a runoff between Mr. Redwine and me, I will expect the support of those who stand with me for constitutional government. Such support will be easier if there is no personal hostility in advance and I pledge you there will be none so far as I am concerned."MILTON O. BLACKWELL

Life InsuranceL. S. COSTLEY,

a series of messages
from Atlanta citizens prominent in business and civic affairs who will cite their views and opinions on life insurance.
This series will be followed with interest by many who appreciate the sound viewpoints of successful men. Watch for those to follow.Nearly a hundred years ago Honore' de Bal-zac said that money was as necessary to a young man in the nineteenth century as a coat of mail was in the fifteenth . . . and today, I am sure all will agree that money, for a proper start in life, is one of the prime requisites of every young man and young woman. In my opinion, there is no better way for parents to provide this necessity than through the medium of Life Insurance.This, however, is not the only accomplishment one can make with Life Insurance; its flexibility renders it one of mankind's greatest tools and unlike many other things, everyone can have it and use it.It is a steadfast bulwark against misery and a comforting protection against the ravages of time of any man's estate.

I am a great believer in LIFE INSURANCE!

SEVEN MEN ARE HELD IN DEATH OF ROYALIST

Spanish Assault Guards Arrested for Kidnaping and Murder.

MADRID, July 13.—(AP)—Seven Spanish assault guards were arrested and held for questioning tonight in the kidnap-murder of Jose Calvo Sotelo, one of the country's most powerful monarchist leaders.

The guard members belonged to the company of the main assault guard captain, Jose De Castilla, slain last night by alleged fascists.

Although an official version of Calvo Sotelo's family insisted the assassination was a terrorist act of vengeance for the killing of an assault guard captain, Jose De Castilla, slain last night by alleged fascists.

Employees of the cemetery said shortly before 4 a. m. a night watchman guard drove up to where they were working. In it were seven or eight men in guard uniforms and four others dressed in civilian clothing, carrying machine guns.

The men told them, they said, that they had the body of a night watchman who had died suddenly, and that they would furnish the necessary burial papers later in the morning.

Upon examination, the body was found to contain wounds apparently made by bayonets in the face and in one foot. A bullet fired through the eye, was believed to have caused death. The posture of the body led authorities to believe Calvo Sotelo had been bound when he was killed.

Special precautions were taken to guard other political figures lest the assassination open a new period of disorder between the left and the right.

Another rightist, Jose Vicente Ruiz, was shot and killed in the town of Dikluna by Mayor Thomas Calle when, Valle said, Vicente Ruiz attacked him while he was being searched for arms.

Sergeant, Retirement Scheduled, Is Found Shot to Death Near Fort

Sergeant M. M. Reynolds, 54, of 1064 Katherine drive, S. W., was found dead at 7 o'clock last night with a bullet through his right temple in a wooded section off Sylvan road, near Harrie drive.

Reynolds, a first sergeant of Company H, 22nd infantry, at Fort McPherson, was discovered by his 14-year-old son, Sam Reynolds, lying under a dogwood tree on the Perkerson estate with his 45-caliber army service automatic lying near by. One cartridge had been fired.

A note addressed to the police was found at the home by his wife when she returned at 6 o'clock after visiting friends.

"Can't Stand Headache," The note read: "Can't stand headache," and was signed by the army sergeant.

Another note, addressed to his wife, was not made public.

Sergeant Reynolds was scheduled to retire from service July 31 and had been on furlough since June 16. He had been in active army service for 30 years.

Detectives Leo Nahlik and M. M. Coppenger said last night they had learned the soldier had been in failing health for a time and the inactivity of furlough and retirement had been weighing on his mind.

Members of his uncle's family and close friends declared they knew of no reason why the youth would have wanted to shoot himself.

PLENTY OF FOOD SEEN FOR U. S. BY WALLACE

Agricultural Secretary, in Address, Lashes Out at 'Propagandists.'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 13.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, lashed out tonight at "alarmists and propagandists" who, he charged, "have tried for their own purposes to scare the consumer about food scarcity" as a result of the drought.

Reciting steps the government contemplates to aid drought-harassed farmers, particularly in the middle-west, the secretary, in a radio address said purchases of livestock for which no feed was available will be handled so that neither consumers nor growers are penalized.

"There is no likelihood now of anything approaching a national food shortage," Wallace said.

"We are much better supplied with food for livestock than we were in 1934. There is an ample supply of vegetables and other food."

"Even if the corn crop in the middle west should be cut severely, the effect would not be felt immediately. In time it would be translated into higher prices for pork. Hogs, or most of them at any rate, are raised on corn. Any shortage in the grain inevitably reduces the pork supply a year later but on the whole there is no excuse for substantial increases in food prices now. The persons who are using the drought as an excuse to increase their profits are taking advantage of human suffering."

Jobless at Pennsylvania Capital In Angry Protest Over Relief End

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 13.—(AP)—Bands of sweltering, irate unemployed men and women converged on the capitol tonight to protest against the legislature's dispute that shut off relief a week ago to Pennsylvania's 567,000 needy.

No food orders nor cash have been sent out for seven days, while democrats and republicans in the senate battled over how much to appropriate for relief for the remainder of July.

Behind the relief tie-up was a major struggle between Governor Earle and the republican senate majority over Earle's tax program to provide $35,000,000 for relief until the end of January.

Republicans demand the Governor cut his estimate to $35,000,000. The extraordinary legislative session, now in its eleventh week, has been stagnated by the struggle, prelude to the presidential campaign and a fight for control of both houses of the legislature.

Democrats now control the house. Republican and democratic proposals and counter proposals to provide emergency funds have risen and fallen in the swirl of speeches and statements in the senate.

Pless were made in the state that "many are going to bed hungry." County poor boards went to the rescue in many communities.

They planned a mass meeting on the steps of the statehouse and invited Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, widely known labor leader; Mayor S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, trying to mediate the legislative quarrel, and others to speak.

Doors of the house and senate were locked and sergeants-at-arms were told to admit only those having "particular business."

Officials said the delegations would be housed in the 10-acre stadium show building on the outskirts of Harrisburg. The national guard furnished cots and bed clothing. Karl De Schweinitz, director of the state emergency relief board, said there would be no food for the visitors, however, because the board had no money.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Tax returns on personal property in the city of Savannah gained this year over last but the total digest showed a shrinkage due to a decline in real estate returns. Apache Indian Dies on Gallows For Hatchet Slaying of Wife, Son Arizona Tribesman Hangs at End of Noose 33 Minutes Before Being Pronounced Dead; Scaffold Guarded Against Demonstration.

SAN CARLOS, Ariz., July 13.—(AP)—Earl Gardner, feared Apache killer, paid with his life in ghastly fashion at dawn today on a gallows hidden in a deep and rugged canyon almost at the base of Coolidge dam.

For 33 agonizing minutes Gardner dangled at the end of the noose before he was pronounced dead.

Heavily armed officers guarded the scaffold and roads approaching it to forestall the possibility of a demonstration by Gardner's fellow tribesmen.

The execution, instead of provoking the wrath of the Indians, federal officials held, served as a "warning" that bloodshed on the reservation would not be tolerated.

The 31-year-old Indian, who hacked his wife and infant son to death with a hatchet, went to his death as he boasted—"like an Apache."

His iron nerve never faltered, not even during the five hours he was kept sitting in an automobile, 25 yards from the abandoned rock crusher that had been converted into a gallows.

NEW TRIAL IS SOUGHT BY MALLORY COUNSEL

MIAMI, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—John Mallory, attorney for Lewis E. Mallory III, of Bradford, Pa., filed a motion today for a new trial of the $300,000 alienation of affections suit brought by James Edgar Jr., of Detroit. Edgar won a $35,000 verdict last week.

The motion was filed with Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammell at his home and contained more than 25 allegations of errors. It will be set for argument soon.

MILITIA SEEKS NEGRO IN ALABAMA ATTACK

ANNISTON, Ala., July 13.—(UP)—Two companies of the Alabama National Guard moved into the Weaver's Cave area tonight to prevent violence to an armed negro suspected of attacking a white woman.

The troops moved swiftly as an outraged mob of nearly 500 Alabamians scoured woodlands for the negro who allegedly attacked a white woman and shot down a posseman.

The negro is accused of assaulting a 22-year-old farmwife, at her isolated home near here. Shortly after the assault the negro shot J. A. Hicks, a farmer.

double-crossed by persons who gave her $500 to make an affidavit in being closely investigated.

Six police pictures of the letters and numbers on the woman's body were taken, to facilitate the investigation of her mutilation. Thompson explained they showed clearly the numbers—"3-12"—cut into her stomach and "C L" into her right thigh.

"The cuts," said Thompson, "are material evidence."

DEWEY DECLARES GIRL "UNRELIABLE."

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, special racketeer prosecutor, who last month obtained the conviction of Charles "Lucky" Luciano, New York city vice lord, said tonight that Jean Bell "never was used as a witness because she was regarded by my office as unreliable."

Miss Bell told Washington police yesterday she was attacked and branded with the initials "C L."

"Whether this latest episode is a publicity stunt or the result of an underworld quarrel will be determined," Dewey announced.

"This girl was arrested as a prostitute in the raids of last February conducted by my office," the prosecutor added. "After the trial she tried to sell her alleged life story to certain newspapers and repeatedly approached defense counsel in the case."

Dewey said as soon as he heard of the attack on Miss Bell, he sent two of his investigators, Paul Lockwood and Frank S. Hogan, and a New York police detective to Washington and had been in touch with them by telephone ever since their arrival there.

Meanwhile, acting Deputy Chief Inspector John A. Lyons announced the woman had been unable to identify positively her assailant from rogues' gallery photographs of men shown her in Washington today by New York detectives.

RIOT KILLS FOUR.

BEIRUT, July 13.—(AP)—A riot in the ancient seaport of Sidon (Saida) was reported today to have claimed four lives. Several persons were wounded and others arrested, authorities said.

receives Peek.

Landon received Peek after lunching with Alfred H. Kirchhofer, new publicity director of the republican national committee, and Hill Blackett, the committee's director of public relations. Earlier, at his office, the Governor talked with Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, economist who favors managed currency, and Bernard MacFadden, the publisher.

Asked whether he thought Landon's telegram to the Cleveland convention, favoring a return to convertibility into gold, when possible without adverse effects, barred the way to a managed currency, Fisher replied:

"Well I hope not; he left a loophole, you know."

MacFadden said he called to meet the Governor and "get in touch" with the situation.

Disappointed in President.

The Landon office made public during the day a letter from William Cabell Bruce, former democratic senator from Maryland, in which he said he was "bitterly disappointed" in President Roosevelt and "deeply gratified" with the Landon-Knox ticket.

Carpenters set to work today erecting a large platform on the south steps of the statehouse from which Governor Landon will be formally notified July 23 of his nomination.

The lawn is being watered daily in an effort to revive the drought-burned grass before the notification.

DEATH LIST MOUNTS TO 390 IN MICHIGAN

breaking a state-wide heat record of 110 degrees established at Bay City in 1911. Other temperatures today, 108.8 at Bay City; 108 at Grand Rapids, Jackson and Owosso and 103.5 at Houghton, on the Keweenaw peninsula extending into Lake Superior. Three died from the heat at Houghton today.

At Mt. Pleasant, a near-cloudburst and gale that uprooted trees and shattered windows provided a welcome respite as the temperature had reached 110 degrees.

Detroit's highest reading was 102 degrees.

Clarence J. Root, government meteorologist, said indications were for a continuation of the high temperatures, which have been 16 to 18 degrees above normal. No real relief in prospect until the end of the week, he said.

Dr. T. K. Gruber, superintendent of the Eloise institution, recalled today for the first time the devastating toll of the intense heat upon aged and infirm patients there. He announced that 86 patients had died since last Wednesday.

Most Aged Patients.

All the deaths, he declared, were attributable to the heat. Most of the patients were aged, suffering from debilitative disease.

Hospital facilities in Detroit were taxed to the utmost as physicians, nurses and orderlies stayed on throughout the day reviving hundreds of persons suffering from prostration. The receiving hospital, where emergency cases were received, converted corridors into temporary wards, and at times the deaths were so numerous that there was not time to remove them to the morgue. The hospital, with a 600 capacity, had 637 patients today.

Officials estimated for the period from midnight to 2 p. m. today a heat death occurred in Detroit every 10 minutes.

At Wayne county morgue, where 100 bodies were received in a day, many unidentified, the scene resembled that of a catastrophe. Dr. W. T. Ryan, chief medical examiner, with the aid of three assistants, performed 150 autopsies with 36 hours.

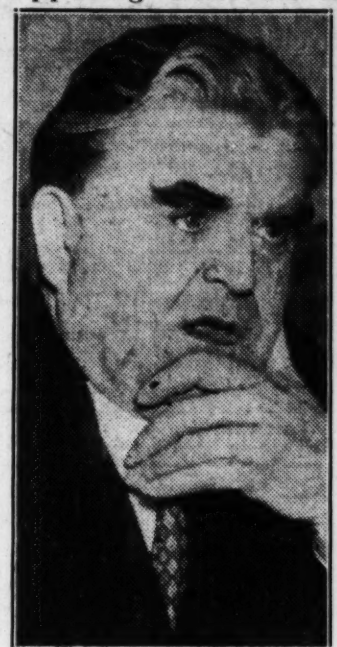

New Mercury Record.

In outstate Michigan 123 deaths from heat and drowning were well scattered, but the lower peninsula broiled as the mercury soared to new records at many points.

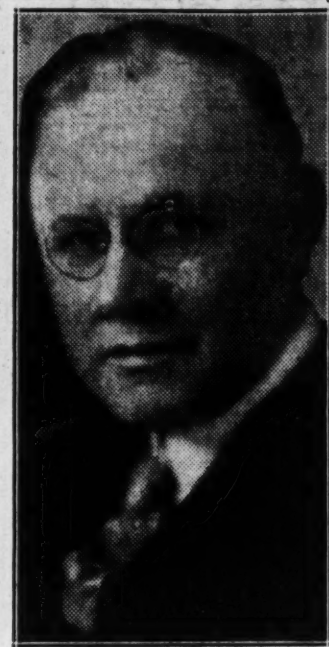

Muskegon, almost invariably cooled by lake winds, experienced a record high of 101 degrees. Grand Rapids a record 107. Flint 107. Adrian 106 and Jackson 106.

The weather bureau gave Michigan no promise of relief tomorrow. The forecast was for continued fair weather and heat.

confident that quick steps would be taken to meet the situation.

The brief pointed out that "approximate panic conditions would obtain in a number of emergency areas if the fall floods come in late September and early October and no action has been taken toward flood control."

At Rockland, Mr. Roosevelt will board the yacht Potomac tomorrow and head for near-by Point Harbor, Maine, where the 53-foot schooner Sewanna will be waiting to carry him on a two-week vacation cruise.

The President's three sons, James, Franklin Jr., and John will act as the crew of the Sewanna. He will be the skipper on a trip to Nova Scotia and Campobello Island, N. B., where he has a summer home.

The cruise is expected to terminate July 28 at Campobello after a couple of days' rest at the house, the President will board a special train for Quebec for a conference with Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of the Dominion.

From Quebec he will probably return to Hyde Park to remain until it is time for his visit to the dust bowl in North and South Dakota and western Minnesota.

During August it was expected that he also would make the tour of the flood areas in the Connecticut valley, Pennsylvania and the Ohio valley.

LUMBER EMPLOYMENT SHOWS GAIN OVER '35

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association said today an analysis of Labor Department statistics showed 510,000 persons were employed in the lumber industry in April, compared with 474,800 in April, 1935.

The industry's payroll during the month averaged $5,576,000, compared with $5,946,000 in April last year. Hourly earnings of employees averaged 47 cents.

Persons employed in March, 1936, totaled 500,500.

FEDERATION HEADS SEE LEWIS UNION OUSTER

Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, were the union leaders who failed to appear for scheduled hearings today.

Appearance Unnecessary.

Hillman notified the council by letter his appearance was unnecessary because the council understood his position. Brown ignored the summons, Green said.

The 12 unions affiliated with the Lewis committee claim a membership of about 1,250,000. Their suspension would cost the federation about one-third of its membership and upwards of $10,000 a month in dues.

Hughes, McWilliams Favored as State Meet Opens Today

Until yesterday the fairways at the Capital City Club were as hard as a gin drinker's arteries.

But Monday's rains softened them up. And today, when the state golf field tees off in search of the title, the greens are expected to be as clean and smooth as a cosmetic demonstrator's cheeks and the fairways as soft as a woolen comforter.

The long rolls of the baked fairways are gone and this loss of distance was reflected in the practice rounds of yesterday. It looks like a great tournament.

These tournaments produce more good golf today than the ones of yesterday. In the old days most of the boys came to have a convivial week of their vacation and a few came to win cups.

Today the young idea is more serious about its golf. It sticks to golf.

THERE IS A DARK HORSE.

There must be a dark horse for every tournament. And for this one I would as soon as not nominate Kid Brown. He can scramble around in a pretty fair score out there.

The Kid is a fighter. Fact is, he started out as a fighter before he started in golf. But he swapped the ring for the fairways and has been getting better right along. The Kid has made his own way in this world of ours and he is used to hanging in there fighting.

Add to this a pretty fair game of golf and you have all the makings of a dark horse. The field is pretty well open with Atlanta's splendid sportsman and golfer, Dr. Julius Hughes, as the unwilling favorite. It simply isn't lucky to be a favorite in any tournament. All the boys wind up and let fly at the favorite, figuring they have all to win and nothing to lose.

And Billy McWilliams, once one of the noblest Romans of them all, and now of Savannah, also is feeling the pinch of being one of the favorites.

MR. BILL WARWICK.

Mr. Bill Warwick, a reformed Tennessean, now located at Valdosta, is here for the tournament. Mr. Warwick once played center for the Vanderbilt football team and was a pretty rugged man in there despite some lack in weight.

I hope and trust there are no strange and amiable gentlemen around this tournament who wish to participate in a game of chance in which dollar bills are used to keep the score.

I recall a story from a Tennessee state tournament of some years ago at the Belle Meade club. There was a stranger around whom no one knew. But he seemed very pleasant and he wanted to shoot a little dice. So the boys obliged him.

He began to win all the money. Mr. Warwick was participating in the friendly little game and he happened to notice, just when most of the funds seemed to have disappeared into the pockets of the stranger, that the stranger, who had supplied the dotted cubes, was doing some switching of cubes. "Just a minute," said Mr. Warwick, to the stranger. "I wish to see you here a minute."

They retired behind some shrubs and there were some smacking sounds. In a moment Mr. Warwick came back with a fist full of funds which he tossed in for the boys to sort out their losses.

"What is the point," he asked, very quietly, dusting off his hands.

The stranger went away from there and no one ever knew his name. If he turns up here and sees Mr. Warwick, I am sure he will depart immediately.

A very fine boy, William Warwick, one of the finest.

A VERY DISTRESSING CONDITION.

A very distressing condition has arisen in New Orleans. All due to night baseball. My friend, Mr. Bill Keefe, reports the story in his Times-Picayune column.

It seems that night baseball has the hens in the neighborhood of Heineemann park working over time. It works in this fashion:

The chickens go to bed, so to speak, at dusk. About the time they are in the middle of a good, sound sleep, the lights come on at the baseball park. The floodlights are so bright that the chickens near the park, think it is daylight and get up. The hens lay the day's egg and walk around looking for food. And then the lights go out. And they go back to bed. And then, pretty soon, it's morning again. And some of the hens, being dutiful to a fault, go lay the second egg. It's great for the egg business but a little tough on the hens.

Mr. Earl Mann, of the Crackers, has received no comment from owners of chickens near the Atlanta ball park. In fact, Mr. Mann doesn't think there are any chickens near the park. "The Atlanta chickens come to the games," said Mr. Mann.

JOSH CODY'S GREAT STAFF.

Josh Cody is doing a very fine job of work building up the Florida athletic staff.

His appointment of Percy Beard, announced yesterday, as a track coach, is one of those things known as a ten strike.

Beard will take a great deal of prestige and ability to Florida. He goes to Berlin as one of the track coaches and he will go to Florida as one of the best-known trackmen the game has produced, a national champion more than once.

We may now expect Florida to produce good track teams—once Beard has had a couple of years to get his work far enough along to produce results.

Beard is one of the finer gentlemen of this world and he will attract track material to Gainesville.

THE TREK TO FLORIDA.

Already the football material has started south.

It was inevitable that boys would follow Josh Cody. He is the sort of man boys follow. And the sort they fight for.

At least a half-dozen stars from various Tennessee and Kentucky high school teams have indicated they want to play for Cody.

If the Florida alumni will be patient for a season or so, they will find their team riding the crest with the better teams in the south.

Significant indeed was a little event in Nashville the day after the announcement of Cody's appointment as head coach at Florida.

Seven prep and high school stars appeared at the Vanderbilt Athletic Association office and asked for Cody. When he appeared, the horrified Vanderbilt officials heard them tell him they wanted to play football for him at Florida.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT OPENS SLOWLY WITH SIX TILTS

Rain Hampers City Play; Reese Wins; Gillespie Leads.

By Betty Mathis.

The city tennis tournament, getting off to its annual start amid showers, found 15 players advancing into the second round, among them five seeded players who drew byes. Three defaults raised the total easy-chair victories to eight.

Jack Simpson withdrew after a dispute about new balls following two sets of his match with Don Buffington. Jack won the first set, 8-6, and Don took the second, 6-4. Buffington was given the match by default.

Entry lists for women's singles and doubles will close this afternoon. Entry fee for singles is $2. Doubles is $3 per team. Entries should be made to Reese or Don Buffington, tournament managers, at the Billmore club, Jackson 6863.

WARREN FACES WHITEY HAYES

The Warren Company baseball team will tackle one of the best amateur ball clubs in the southeastern states tonight on the Warren athletic field when they clash with the Goodyear team from Gadsden, Ala., at 8:30 o'clock.

The starting hurler for the Gadsden team, Millard (Whitey) Hayes, should be familiar to all Atlanta baseball fans as he was with the Crackers one year and then went with the Chattanooga club in the Southern association, returning to Atlanta to beat the Crackers in practically all his starts against them.

He then was sold to the Washington Senators and after pitching good ball for the major league club, was returned to Chattanooga for the rest of the season. Whitey Hayes possesses as much speed as any hurler in amateur circles.

Lewis Edilson will be the moundman for the Warren team and should be equal to his past performances, he will trouble the visitors. Edilson has won seven and lost three so far this season and has figured high in his team's record of 41 wins, 13 losses and one tie game with 55 of the strongest teams over Georgia, North and South Carolina and Alabama and Tennessee.

Following tonight's game the Warren Company engages the strong Buford Shoemakers on the Warren athletic field Friday night at 8:30 o'clock in what should be classed as the meeting of the two best amateur ball clubs in the state.

Yates Risks Title In Western Meet

Charlie Automatically Qualifies; Match Play Begins Thursday at Omaha.

By William Weekes.
OMAHA, Neb., July 13.—(AP)—Blond Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, Ga., the defending champion, Omaha's own Johnny Goodman and Walter Emery, of Oklahoma City, will embark on a little advance Walker cup business tomorrow in the thirty-seventh annual western golf championship tournament at the Happy Hollow Club.

The three young men not only will be out there shooting over the 6,692 yards of the sun-cooked golf course in pursuit of the country's second-ranking amateur honor, but will be swinging just as carefully to prove that no mistake was made when they were selected over other hot-shots, for Walker cup duty starting September 2 at Clementon, N. J.

That test will be thorough, for the field arrayed against the trio includes almost every standout in the amateur ranks. Rodney Bliss, Goodman's fellow-townsmen, who landed runner-up to Yates last year at Colorado Springs, and bowed to Jack Westland, of Chicago, in the 1933 final at Memphis, Tenn., is primed for a big bid for the elusive crown.

Charles (Chuck) Evans Jr., of Chicago, eight times winner of the tournament, will attempt to make it nine before he quits.

Gus Moreland, of Peoria, Ill., who won the 1932 title, will return to major competition in the tournament, as will Johnny Lehman, the new Chicago district champion. Paul Leslie, of Jefferson City, Mo., and Louisiana State University, who lost to Chuck Kocsis, of Michigan, in the national intercollegiate title battle, and Fred Haas Jr., the other Louisiana State star, the intercollegiate medalist, head the underdog contingent.

Along with Kocsis whose new job in Detroit kept him away, the notable absentees were David (Spec) Goldman and Reynolds Smith, Walker cuppers from Dallas, Texas, who entered, but later decided not to compete.

The opening half of the 36-hole qualifying round will be played tomorrow. The second 18 will be done Wednesday, with the 31 low scorers, and Yates who is not required to qualify, going into medal play Thursday. The first two match play rounds, both on Thursday, will be at 18 holes.

The quarter-final, semi-final and final tests, winding up Sunday, will be over the 36-hole route.

Yates scored a 36-38-72, par figures for the layout, in his final practice round today. He had a little trouble with the tricky greens of the first few holes, but got control of the situation and was dropping putts in steady fashion at the finish. Crawford Rainwater, another Atlantan, did not play the course today.

SCHUMAN WINS.

MIAMI, Fla., July 13.—(P)—Harry Schuman, Chicago middleweight, earned a decision over Roy Bailey, of Miami, in an eight-round slugfest match here tonight. Each weighed 166 pounds.

OLYMPIC FUND NEARING GOAL

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The largest team ever to represent the United States in the Olympics abroad—at least 362—will sail for Berlin Wednesday night.

This was definitely assured tonight by Gustavus T. Kirby, treasurer of the Olympic committee, who reported a cash deficit of $21,447.57, but said that this would more than likely be made up with something to spare from the receipts from the final track and field tryouts at Randall's Island stadium last Saturday and Sunday.

Three teams will remain in difficulty, field hockey, women's swimming and women's track. The field hockey team still needs $3,223; women's swimming needs $5,500; and women's track $3,328. These sums must be met by noon tomorrow if the complete teams are to sail, and if they are met, the complete list of United States contestants in the games will number 364.

Kirby pointed out, however, that the American Olympic committee must raise $50,000 more in order to meet its running expenses and its $25,000 obligation to the American Olympic Association, which is the permanent United States Olympic organization.

Among the contributions announced today was one for $100 from Peter Sarron, N. B. A. featherweight champion. Sarron, an alternate on the 1928 team, sent it to Bill Street Jr., manager of the wrestling team.

Another was a check for $500 from Mayor Leslie E. Knox, of Somerville, Mass., to finance the trip of Josephine Warren, a home town girl and a member of the women's 400-meter relay team.

The reichsportfeld, 325 acres of playland built at a cost of many millions of dollars, today formally was declared completed and ready for the Olympic games, August 1 to 16.

With all technical equipment in operation, a dress rehearsal for the international games was held this afternoon.

Located about 10 miles west of the center of Berlin, the reichsportfeld is a collection of stadium for track and field, swimming, tennis, hockey, polo, equestrian sports, of huge rally fields, an outdoor theater and numerous tennis courts. It includes also the buildings of a high school for physical culture, its two cinder tracks which will be the training center for Olympic participants, and six big lawns for field games.

MORE THAN 150 IN QUALIFYING OVER 18 HOLE

Match Play in All Flight Starts Wednesday at Capital City.

By Roy White.

Qualifying rounds for Georgia's annual state golf tournament will played today over the 18-hole route of the Capital City Country Club. Already 152 players have entered, practiced, with at least 30 more expected to enter today before the closing.

It is by far the largest entry in the past ten years and there will be a merry scramble for some of the 128 players, in four divisions. Atlanta and with every large city in state except Macon, Americus, W. Cross, Thomasville and Sea Island represented, it will be one of the balanced tournaments in the history of the state. Never before have 63 players from out of town entered the state tournament in Atlanta and that represents almost half of the list already registered.

ZIMMERMAN OUT. Bill Zimmerman, young Aug. sharp-shooter, who won the championship last year at Rome, will be able to defend his title, leaving field wide open for some new we of the crown for 1936. And every participant must qualify to get into the tourney today.

Dr. Julius Hughes, Atlanta's champion and runner-up twice in succession to Billy McWilliams and Zimmerman, has been installed the favorite. Hughes won low scoring in the sectional qualifying for national open and will make a determined effort to win his first Georgia title.

And it was on the Capital course in two great back nine runs where Dr. Hughes won his two Atlanta open crowns, two years ago this past spring. And so he will "at home" on the Capital City course when championships are at stake.

OTHER FAVORITE. Billy McWilliams, who won the Atlanta title in 1933 and at Lake in 1934 to tie a record of successive wins held by Gene C. now professional at Anniston, and Charlie Yates, will be the outstanding favorite in this way.

Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta; Ch. Black Jr., and Dave Black are only other former winners in the competition.

McWilliams in practice rounds day and Monday was well pleased with his shots. He did not strike any scoring records, but played consistently all the way, getting a run and distance on his shots. Hu. Charlie Black and Oliver also played well in practice Monday and will very much in the running.

TEAM COMPETITION. Team competition will be one of the big features of the qualifying rounds, with a trophy for club and individual prizes to members of the winning team.

Atlanta will have six teams entered, along with others from Macon, Columbus, Athens and Rome Capital City, the sponsors, will be represented by Charlie Black, Charlie Austin, with Rome, Valdosta and Bill Healey.

East Lake will have Scott Hu. J. L. R. Hunter, Tommy Ba and J. M. Townes Jr.

Druid Hills will be represented by Dr. Julius Hughes, Jack Rothman, C. M. Bowden and Henry Young. West End will send Red O. Harry Freckberg, Chas. Edw. and W. D. Tumlin for team competition.

Black Rock's team will include Hump Wagar, Jack Hall, J. I. and J. M. Townes Jr.

Out-of-town teams will give Atlanta plenty of trouble. Atlanta's own teams, Valdosta, Athens, Covington and Griffin represented by four-man teams.

QUALIFY TOGETHER. Two of the favorites, Hughes and Black, will qualify together at 1 o'clock this afternoon in what to be one of the best two some wroon Monday sent practice.

Black, will qualify together at 1 o'clock this afternoon in what to be one of the best two some wroon Monday sent practice.

Entries will be received until 11:30 a. m. today. The starting times after 1:30 o'clock been taken, it is likely that no p not already entered will be permitted to enter after 1 o'clock.

The early closing, necessary to qualify all players before dark during a play-off for the championship division. And there has been a state tourney in several years where no play-off was necessary.

Last year at Rome played for six places trophy for Paul Duke, veteran tourna handler and starter, will receive tries at the starter's tee today request prospective players to the course between 11:40 and 6 or before 8:30 o'clock, as all desirable times have been reserved.

Another heavy rain about midnight Monday sent practice skyrocketing and no sense rounds were recorded. The particularly in the fairways, summed the water as fast as it and the course should be in a lent condition for the quali rounds today.

4 DEATHS ATTRIBUTED TO DERANGED MOTHER

Divorcee Turns Gun on Two Sons, Bedridden Mother, Then Self.

WINCHESTER, Va., July 13.—(AP)—Acting Coroner A. P. Osborne today attributed the deaths of four members of a Clarke county family to Mrs. May Smallwood, 50-year-old divorcee who, he said, apparently shot her two sons and her bedridden mother before turning the gun on herself.

Dr. Osborne said he believed Mrs. Smallwood was deranged by ill health. Two men, alarmed by smoke curling from windows and doors of the home, battered their way through barred entrances to find the shot-torn bodies on burning beds.

They put out the fires, which had not gained headway, and found Mrs. Joseph (Virginia) Elsea, 87-year-old mother of Mrs. Smallwood, still barely alive. She died before she could be moved.

CITY EXECUTIVE BODY VOTES PRIMARY RULES

Council Aspirants To Run 'Against Field'; Voting Machines Sought.

Aspirants for the dozen councilmanic positions for which nominations will be made in the municipal primary September 2 will run against the field instead of under a bracket system, members of the city democratic executive committee decided last night.

At the same time, the committee voted to seek an expression from the electorate on a proposal to institute automatic voting machines for municipal elections and primaries in the future. A. L. Belle Isle, vice chairman of the committee, asked that the referendum be sought, and committee members concurred in the suggestion.

Under the rule adopted last night, candidates for the two councilmanic posts in each of the six wards will qualify by paying the entrance fees and signing the pledge as required by the committee.

LOCARNO COMPROMISE SUGGESTED BY BRITAIN

Attempt Made To Induce France and Italy To Settle Differences.

PARIS, July 13.—(AP)—France considered a British compromise plan tonight to bring Italy and Germany into the Locarno meeting tentatively set for July 16 at Brussels.

Standards taken by France and Italy in expectation of the Brussels parity brought forth the British suggestion that Britain, France and Belgium should issue a common statement before the meeting setting forth their aims and desires at the conference, and then allow Hitler's delegate to attend the opening session.

The French took the view Germany first should be excluded from the conference until the nation produced a basis for discussion. Italy demanded that Germany be admitted from the beginning.

MAN HELD IN KILLING

REITERATES DEFENSE

L. E. Gray, held in Fulton tower on charges of murdering Ben George, 27, of 86 Batchelor avenue, Egan Park, appeared yesterday before Calvin Cole, investigator for Solicitor General John A. Boykin, and made an official statement, said to be a repetition of his story of the killing to Fulton county police.

Gray, who lives in the same house with George, said he went to Mrs. George's aid Sunday night when he heard her screaming. He said he found George in a dazed state and threatening to kill his two-month-old baby. He declared George attacked him with a milk bottle and in the fight that followed Gray cut George severely in the leg. George died shortly after reaching Grady hospital.

Attaches of the solicitor's office said an indictment will be sought against Gray this week.

Marilyn McNaughton Observes Fifth Birthday at Nautical Party

By Sally Forth.

WHEN the S. S. Birthday gets under way Wednesday with little Marilyn McNaughton at the helm, her 30 shipmates will have any nautical adventures in store for them at the Peachtree Battle venue port of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McNaughton, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Orr. It will be the fifth annual cruise for young Marilyn, who each year journeys to a different "make-believe" port.

With a "Ship Ahoy!" signal this year, the party will chant an anchor at 4:30 o'clock. A large lighthouse will form an interesting game, and this time it will be the member of the crew who has the light on the house, instead of the traditional tail on the monkey, for the prize.

Marilyn's girl shipmates will wear sailor caps with gold stars, like the boys' caps will feature blue stars. There will be a deck of "Pop-Eye the Sailor," after which the crew will dance the sailor's hornpipe to the tune of "Barnacle Bill the Sailor."

Although it's "chow" on shipboard, many tempting delicacies have been planned for Marilyn and crew. The table will be centered with a large three-tiered cake topped with a girl dressed as an American sailor, the gift of the honor guest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orr. The table will be covered with marine blue satin cover veiled with a fish net cloth bordered with corks. Favors will be tiny ships and other nautical figures. Napkins will be of marine blue and will be placed in miniature life savers.

Included on the cruise with Marilyn will be Frances Stewart, Jim Elliott, Lorette Taylor, Mary Lee Culver, Howard Hubbard, John and Patsy Ann Rockwood, Callie Huger, Gladys Lamb, Anne Warren, Saralyn Poole, Douglas Saffarans, Margaret Wood, Ernest and Charles McCullough, Marjorie Dobbs, Barbara Kilgore, Stewart Bird, Emma Garnsey, Bobby Moore, William Joel Leach and Anne Leach, Anne Milam, Frank, Bobbie and Virginia Burns and Virginia Dunlap. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Orr, Dr. and Mrs. Forrest M. Barfield, Mrs. Charles F. Rice and Miss Mary Rice will also be on hand to bid the youngsters bon voyage.

OF ALL the cars in New York to choose from, a group of southerners selected a police radio motor to wreck. To hit a car is bad enough, but when one chooses the police automobile it seems reason enough that they want to go to jail. The offenders swear that jail would be bad enough at home without going to New York to sample it.

It all happened one night on Broadway when Marjorie Carmichael and her date (who is a native of Alabama) were driving up and down New York's famed thoroughfare. There was a screeching of brakes, a scream and soon Marjorie and her young man found themselves in a wrecked car and not only charged with carelessness, but also driving without a driver's license, which is a rather serious offense in New York state.

No amount of talking could convince the police that they were visitors and seeing the sights, so down to jail they went. It was only after much persuasion and the displaying of southern charm on the part of Marjorie, her mother, Mrs. Homer Carmichael, and Mrs. Wallace Daniel, Mrs. S. L. Fleetwood and Mrs. Roy Miller, who all came to the aid of the party, that a rather reluctant judge reduced the young man's fine from $25 to $15.

A week ago we heralded the "Casual" Fur Coat of 1936-'37. Now we stress again the importance of the "Casual" fashion. For there is this fact: You can make no smarter, no wiser, no more urbane choice...

In mood and tempo with our modern lives, the Casual. Free. Debonair. And as ready for all the activities of the day as you yourself...

Countless — and varied — versions bear witness to its scope. Always, however, you see the ease, the animation, the pronounced simplicity that characterizes the Casual.

A. Formalized, flared version of the English reefer—a Casual by virtue of its colorful, nubby fabric, its grey Persian trim... 59.50

B. Formal in fabric—semi-smooth, hairy, slub woolen. Made a Casual by the cut, so full, so free-swinging. (Skirt to order, 5.95)... 79.50

C. Formal in fur—the inimitable silver fox. Formal in fabric—smooth hairy woolen. But withal, a Casual, because of box-like styling. 89.50

THE FAMOUS PLANET MARS.
Is Mars really the home of people, and do the lines really mean canals?
At the present moment, the best answer we can give to those questions is "No" to either one, and be sure of being right.

Changes in three months of polar cap of Mars.

Since the year when the lines were seen for the first time, hundreds of men have given study to Mars. Some have felt certain that they could see a fine canal system, but other say the lines do not prove there are canals. Some even say they cannot see any clear lines.

Strangely enough, photographs have been given great help. To show the surface, the pictures must be made with the help of an enlarging lens, and that does not produce clear-cut views. The photographs show patches which are darker than other parts of the planet, but they do not give us the fine view we should like to see. There may be a different story to tell when the great 200-inch telescope is finished and put to work.

Up to this time, we must depend mostly on drawings of what certain men have seen, or believe they have seen, through telescopes. Sometimes these drawings contain scores of lines, but certain observers are not able to see more than a few markings.

Mars is believed to have a rather cold climate. It is farther from the sun than the earth is, and the air cannot hold the sun's heat very well. Even though the planet is far from the sun and has this thin air, parts of the surface seem to have a temperature at noon of 50 degrees, or more, above zero. The nights, on the other hand, must be very cold.

Scientists agree that Mars has "polar caps." These can be seen plainly on photographs. They keep changing in size as the seasons roll by. The northern one is large in winter, but gets smaller and smaller in the spring and summer. The southern polar cap grows in size while the northern one is getting smaller, and in summer it goes out of sight altogether.

At midwinter, the northern snow cap covers about 10,000 square miles, but in summer it goes down to an area of about 600 square miles. The southern snow cap has nearly the same size during winter, but in summer cannot be seen at all.

If all the snow of the southern cap melts in the summer season, it would seem to prove that the south pole of Mars has warmer summer weather than the south pole of the earth, where snow and ice stay the year around. (For science section of your scrapbook.)

EXTRA CALORIES FOR UNDERWEIGHTS.

The underweight appetite is at low ebb in hot weather. To prevent the loss of precious pounds, summer diets should be tucked into every possible nook and cranny of the menu. Reinforce the diet with extra calories by using butter and mayonnaise on sandwiches, by the addition of cream to salad dressings, and cream to summer berries.

There are dozens of ways of adding calories without increasing the bulk of the menu. You can literally sandwich in hundreds of calories. A reducer is allowed a cream cheese and lettuce sandwich at 250 calories, but you can triple the calorie count by adding chopped nuts and dates and buttering your bread. Mix in a little mayonnaise for an extra dash of calories.

You can add calories to any chopped meat sandwich in the form of nuts and cream mayonnaise, and wouldn't the reducers go for that?

1896-B EMBROIDERY AND SHIRTING

IDEAL FOR LITTLE GIRL FROCKS.

Wee moderns have a great deal to say about what they wear and they invariably choose a clever outfit like this with a simple and pretty dress and even more simple panties to match.

Shirring in front and back accents the delicate yoke that cuts in one with the sleeves to lighten mother's sewing, while dainty floral embroidery adds distinction. Best of all, there are two patterns for the price of one, for it includes cunning knickers, so neat for small people, and wearable with those or other frocks. The little knickers are cut in one piece and held in place by an elastic inserted in the hem at upper edge and bottom. Small daughter will love this set and look adorably sweet in it.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1896-B is available for sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 2 3/4 yards of 30-inch material.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

LEAVING IN DOUBLES.

When you have opened the bidding on shaded values, the next hand has overcalled in a suit, and your partner has doubled for penalties, the greatest consideration in whether or not you should leave in the double is your holding in the doubled suit itself. You need have no qualms over the fact that your bid advertised slightly greater strength if you are prepared to assist partner in his attack on that most vital spot, the trump suit. A queen, even a jack of trumps can easily take on the value of an outside ace.

In today's hand South was afraid that his questionable vulnerable bid had misled his partner into a dangerous double. He should have given greater consideration to his own holding in the opponents' suit.

North, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am 42 years old, living with my second wife, that is when she is at home. Once I had a lovely wife who died. Two years after I lost her I was lonely and married a widow. Although I had known her all my life I didn't know her as well as I thought I did. Her son and his family live not far away and her interest is exclusively in him and his children. I have done my best to get her to take some interest and pride in our home but she leaves the housekeeping to my children and stays most of the time at her son's home. They usually have a big crowd there in the evening and they play cards and have big times which I oppose at my house. Now I have put up with this for a year and am tempted to let her go to live with her son. Why should I marry for companionship and then not have it?

Answer: There isn't any reason why you should put up with such high-handed conduct as your wife is guilty of and if you won't change her methods you are well within your rights to tell her that she has got to quit chiseling, attend to her duties as housekeeper, stay at home when she is there, or move out for good. But you shouldn't tell her this until you have tried a little diplomacy with her. Appeal to her good sportsmanship. Make some concessions to her taste for having friends and fun in the evening. Quit comparing her to your first wife who evidently found her pleasure in staying at home with you and the children. Remember your present wife has probably had some disappointments in you and finding you unwilling to meet her halfway in a new scheme of life she has fled to her son's home, where the atmosphere is more to her liking. Of course this is cowardly and shows she isn't made of the proper stuff. Even at this she may be made to see what a cheat she is in leaving the housekeeping to your children in the day time and running out on you in the evening. If she won't do her

No doubt you have spoiled her, made her too easy for her. A young girl must be disciplined to develop her character just as a baby must have something hard on which to cut its teeth. A mother who in the softness of her heart and the softness of her head makes life smooth and comfortable for her child seldom reaps the reward of love and gratitude that her sacrifices would seem to warrant. She gets no thanks and small consideration.

Love is likely to get any of us in trouble unless it is restrained by common sense. A woman who loves her husband so intensely that she lets him run rough-shod over her, the mother who does on her children to such an extent that she can deny them nothing, the young girl who is so crazy about her boy friend that she can't say no, are all heading in for trouble, driven by love and unrestrained by common sense.

CHRISTMAS EVE.

Some Sights and Sounds Caught on Houston Streets and Elsewhere.

Houston is a typical southern city, although a busy, growing city, that is easily holding its place among the half-dozen metropolitan cities of the south, it retains most of the old-time southern customs and traditions.

The all-absorbing haste, the breathless rush, the restless scramble to gain so noticeable in northern cities is absent here. Houston people are prosperous and they take things easy, believing that one may gather a few roses of pleasure on the way through life, and still keep up with the march of progress. In no city in the south is Christmas more merrily welcomed with social pleasures, the exchanging of friendly offerings, and general rejoicing than in Houston. The immense crowds of people that have lined our streets and stores for the past week testify to the fact.

Yesterday was probably the busiest day among the merchants that the season has witnessed; and there is no question but that it brought to the children anticipations of the brightest nature.

Stood for a few moments on the corner and view the people.

They are moving like a colony of ants, some going, some coming, threading in and out in an endless tangled maze. When the gods lean over the edge of Mount Olympus and gaze down upon this world, while the waiter is out filling their glasses with nectar, they must be highly entertained by the little comedy that is holding the boards on earth. Our world must look to them very much as a great ant bed, over which we crawl and scramble, and run this way and that, apparently without purpose or design.

That light streak across the sky, which we call the Milky Way, is nothing more nor less than the foam spilt from tankards of nectar as the gods quaff, and laugh at our strange antics. But it is Christmas Eve, and what do we care for their laughter? Turn up the lights; let the curtain rise, and the Christmas crowd is on!

Did you ever watch a young lady buy a Christmas present for her father?

If not, you have missed a good thing.

They all go about it the same way. In fact, young ladies who buy Christmas presents for their fathers are just as sure to perform the operation in exactly the same way, as they are to sit on one foot while reading a novel. She always has just two dollars for this purpose, which is handed her by her mother, who suggests the idea. She goes out late in the afternoon on the day before Christmas. She first goes to a jeweler's and looks at several trays of diamond-studded watches and wonders which one her father would like. Then, after examining about 100 diamond rings, she suddenly remembers the amount of money she has, sighs and goes off to a clothing store, where she closely scrutinizes an $18 smoking jacket, and a $40 overcoat. She says she believes she will think over the matter before buying and leaves. Next she visits a book store, three dry goods stores, two more jewelers and a candy shop. When Christmas morning comes her father finds himself the proud possessor of a new red pen wiper with the 15-cent cost mark carefully erased and there are to be observed in a certain young lady's dressing case a new pair of gloves and a box of nice chocolate bonbons.

The fat man who is taking home a red wagon is abroad in the land. He is generally a pompous man who prides himself on being self-made, and glories in showing his democracy by carrying home his own bundles. He holds the wagon in front of him and pushes his way through the crowd with a sterling citizen-look-alike-ranks air that is quite wonderful to observe.

How the girls in their cloaks with high turned-up collars laugh and chatter and gaze in the show windows with "Oh's" and "Ah's" at everything they see! If you happen to be standing near a group of them you will hear something like this:

"Oh, Mabel, look at that lovely ring—squeezed my hand and said—skin, indeed! I guess I know plush when I see it. I'll buy that one, of course; I bet they'll hold more than yours, your old slim—good gracious! Let me pin your—papa asked him how he wanted his eggs for breakfast and Charlie got mad and left and the clock hadn't struck—No, I wear these kind that—16 inches around the waist! I'll take that lovely—forgot to shave, and it scratched all along—I'll trade with you, Lil; Tom said—with lace all around the—come on, girls, let's—"

The noise of a passing street car drowned the rest.

The children are out in full force. Did you ever reflect that children are the wisest philosophers in the world? They see the wonderful things in the windows for sale; and they listen gravely to the tales told them of Santa Claus; and, without endeavoring to analyze the situation, they rejoice with exceeding joy. They never measure the chimney or calculate the size of Santa's sleigh; they never puzzle themselves by wondering how the old fellow gets his goods out of the stores, or question his stupendous feat of climbing down every chimney in the land on the same night. If grown folks would do this, and analyze the things that are mysterious to them, they would be far happier.

Two men meet on Main street and one of them says:

"I want you to help me think. I want to get even with my wife this Christmas, and I don't exactly know how to do it. For the last five years she has been making me ostensible Christmas presents that are not of the slightest possible use to me, but are very costly to herself. Under the pretense of buying me a present, she simply buys something she wants for herself and uses Christmas for her nefarious schemes. Once she gave me a nice wardrobe, in which she hangs her dresses. Again she gave me a china tea set, at another time a piano, and last Christmas she made me a present of a sidesaddle and I had to buy her a horse. Now I want to get something for her Christmas present this year that I can use, and that will be of no possible service to her."

"H'm," said the other man thoughtfully, "it's going to be a hard thing to do. Let's see. You want something to do it with. I have it! I have it! Buy yourself a new pair of trousers made and present them to her."

"Won't do," said the first man, shaking his head. "She'd have 'em on in 10 minutes and be clamoring for a bicycle."

"Buy her a razor, then; she can't use that either."

"Can't she? She has three combs."

"Say! There ain't anything you can get that you can use and she can't."

"Don't believe there is. Well, let's go take something anyhow."

The lights are beginning to burn in the show windows, and people are gathering in front of them.

To many of the lookers-on this gazing in the windows is all the Christmas pleasure they will have. Many of them are from the country and little towns along the 14 lines of railroad that run into Houston. A country youth presses through the crowd with open mouth and wondering eyes. Holding fast to his hand, follows Arminta, bedecked in gorgeous colors, beholding with scarce-believing optics the fairy-like splendors of Main street. When they return to Galveston they will long remember the glories of the great city they visited at Christmas.

A solemn man in a high silk hat, attired in decorative black, edges his way along the sidewalk. One would think him some city magnate making his way home, or a clergyman out studying the idiosyncrasies of human nature. He opens his mouth and yells in a high, sing-song voice: "What will mamma say when Willie comes home with a mustache just like papa's—buy one right now, boys; you can curl 'em, twist 'em, pull 'em and comb 'em just like real ones—come on boys!" He fixes below his nose a black mustache with a wonderful curl to the ends and goes his way, occasionally selling one to some smooth-faced boy, who shyly makes his purchase. On the edge of the sidewalk a crowd of men is offering "the most wonderful mechanical toy of the century, causing more comment and excitement than any other article exhibited at the great 20th annual fair. The public crowds about him and buys with avidity. Not 20 steps away in a Houston toy shop the same kind of toy has been sold for years.

On a corner stand a group of—well, say young men.

They wear new style high turn-down collars and chrysanthemums. Their hats tilt backward and their front hair is brushed down low. They are gazing at the ladies as they pass. How Charles Darwin would have loved to meet these young men! But, alas! he died without completing the chain. Listen at the scraps of allied conversation that can be distinguished above their simultaneous jabber:

"Deuced nice girl, but a little too—cigaret? I'll owe you one—she's a nice girl, but the loveliest necktie you ever—would have paid my board, but saw that elegant suit at—kicked me clear out of the parlor without—that girl has certainly got a—haven't a cent, old man, or I would—old man said I had to go to work, but—look at that blonde with the—smiled right at me, and—the little one with the blue—he struck me in the eye, and I won't speak to him now—no, the brunette in the white—was real mad, and said 'confound it'—link buttons, of course."

At a corner sits a woman with blue goggles, grinding an orn, on which stands a lamp chimney, in which burns a tallow candle.

Why the candle, the observer knows, is not. At her side crouches her pale little boy. A philanthropist bends toward her with a nickel between his fingers. Far away, among the wilds near Alvin, he has a little boy about the same age and his heart is touched. The little boy springs up. He has a cigaret in his mouth and he hurries a big firecracker between the philanthropist's feet. It explodes; the boy yells with delight, and the philanthropist says: "God darn the kid" and reserves his nickel for beer.

Gazing with far-off, longing eyes into a show window that glitters with diamonds and jewelry, stands a woman. Her black dress and veil proclaim that she is a widow. One year ago the strong arm upon which she leaned with such love and security was her husband's. Tonight, beneath the sod of the churchyard, it is turning back to dust. And yet, she is not altogether desolate. She has sweet memories of her loved one to sustain her; and besides that, she is holding to the arm of the man she is engaged to marry when her time of mourning is up and she is out selecting an engagement ring.

A policeman lurks in the shadow of an awning with his club in his hand ready to strike.

Two doors away there lives an aide man who voted against his being in on the force. It will not be long before the aide man's little boy will come out on the sidewalk and show a Roman candle, and then the policeman will strike; a city ordinance will be carried out, and a little be carried in.

A man steps up to a salesman in a fancy goods store. "I want to get something," he says, "for my wife's mother. I think—"

"James," calls the salesman, "she's the 5-cent counter. The Merchants make a study of the customers are quick to know what they want."

A man who is unmistakably a clergyman goes into a grocery store to get next door to a salmon. The salesman attends upon him. He buys a couple of cents worth of minced meat for pie and then lingers, clearing his throat. "Anything else?" asks the salesman.

The clerical-looking man fumbles with his white cambric tie, and says: "Tomorrow will be Christmas, you know—day of holy thoughts—peace on earth, and—our hearts should be full of holy thoughts—how we must die—er—er—mince pies, you know; the little ones in the family can't get them. She always thought, perhaps—something to fix—just a drop of—"

"Here, Jimmy," yells the salesman, "go in next door and get this for a pint of whisky."

Christmas brings pleasure to many, it brightens some lives that have ever known sunshine; it is absurd too many and made a season of revelry and sin; but to the little ones it is a joy forever, so let the tin horns blare, and the red drums rattle, and those restless little feet and the grimy little hands come first in making up of heaven's kingdom.

Merry Christmas to all.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

There are an awful lot of country cousins who always manage to get to the city for a nice long visit during the summer time. You've noticed? Well, one of the worst of the to our minds, is the husky dairy man who never gets tired. She just adores a big town. She wants to see everything there is to see, and visit every store in town. Once started, she can't get her. She always bobs up out of her seat with a cheery smile and says: "And where are we going to do next? I'm thrilled."

We've found just one cure for the gal from the cornfields. When you get good and fed up, we always take her to the tallest building in town and make her climb to the top. Tell her that no one ever comes to a city without counting the number of steps in the tallest building. course, with her usual lack of grip, and by the time she has climbed the number of steps, she's tired.

The is, to be sure, the penalty that we usually have to lead the way. But we consider the results well worth the climb.
